

LUX EXPOSÉ

Robert A.M. Stern Architects-designed suite of club-like amenities has just been unveiled at 200 East 83rd. Naftali and Rockefeller Groups' new Upper East Side residential tower is the first collaboration between RAMSA and Rottet Studio, the renowned interior design firm whose credits include The Surrey Hotel in Manhattan, The St. Regis in Aspen, and The Beverly Hills Hotel Presidential Bungalows. Rottet Studio designed the building's 86 bespoke residences and shared spaces.

Image Credit: DBOX

Since launching 30% pre-sold in October, 200 East 83rd has already broken neighborhood sales records and the amenities have been noted as a huge selling point for buyers.

RAMSA's innovative decision to position the seventy-foot pool, health club and entertainment spaces in the middle of the tower is boldly expressed on the 'Modern Classical' building's façade and complemented by the gracious Rottet Studio-designed amenity interiors.

Each featuring a vaulted ceiling honed limestone walls and a double-height loggia with floor-to-ceiling arched windows and French doors, the 17th-floor pool room and Winter Garden invite the outdoors in and allow for natural light, fresh air and incredible New York City skyline and Central Park views. Residents can overlook both spaces from inside the state-of-the-art fitness center and yoga studio.

Additional amenities at 200 East 83rd include a luxurious spa and steam room, sauna and custom-designed treatment rooms; a vaulted porte-cochère with automated parking opening onto a private courtyard; and a wood- and leather-paneled library with an adjoining landscaped garden and a fireplace framed by bespoke marble mantelpieces, designed by Rottet Studio. The building also boasts a children's playroom and a private cinema. The lobby at 200 East 83rd will be attended 24-hours a day with a doorman and concierge service.